

About the Author

Leonard Matz, consultant and bank trainer, has been in banking since he became a federal bank examiner in 1973. He spent more than 15 years in banking as a senior manager, including serving as senior vice president for investments and funds management at the largest subsidiary of Michigan National Corporation. He was chairman of the Risk Conferences on Liquidity in 1999 and 2002, has lectured at the Graduate School of Banking at Madison, Wisconsin, and has been a member of the National Asset/Liability Management Association since 1989. Mr. Matz is the author or coauthor of numerous financial publications.

Sheshunoff Information Services, Inc. has been the leading provider of professional publications and “how to” manuals for the banking industry since 1973.